

Some Days are Different!

National Center for Pyramid Model Innovations | ChallengingBehavior.org

The reproduction of this document is encouraged. Permission to copy is not required. If modified or used in another format, please cite original source. This is a product of the National Center for Pyramid Model Innovations and was made possible by Cooperative Agreement #H326B170003 which is funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs. However, those contents do not necessarily represent the policy of the Department of Education, and you should not assume endorsement by the Federal Government.

Pub: 06/02/22

Our teachers help us learn and have fun with all our friends at school.

Sometimes we cannot be in our classroom and we have different teachers. We might go to a new classroom. We might feel sad or worried because we are in a different room, but we will go back to our classroom soon.

The teachers in the new classroom can help us learn and have fun. When we are in the new classroom, we will still follow a classroom schedule. We will still do fun things like circle time, art, centers, and playing with other children.

When we are in a new classroom, the teachers will learn our names, but sometimes they might get mixed up and call us by our friend's name. That's ok; we can just tell the new teachers our name.

If we need help, we can ask the teacher in the new classroom for help.

When we get back to our classroom, we will be excited to see our teacher. They will be proud that we had fun learning and playing in a new classroom. We know what to do when our days at school are different!

This sample scripted story was created by Meghan von der Embse, Anna Winneker, Leigh Ashley, Erin Sizemore, and Lise Fox.

Scripted stories can be used to help an individual child or groups of children follow the expectations of activities, routines, and social situations. See the Making a Scripted Story for Early Childhood Education and Care Environments and Making a Scripted Story \(for home\) resources for tips on developing your own story.